To Whom It May Concern:

I'm writing this letter in reference to my experience with Southwest General Contractors in our recent construction project. We chose Southwest for a number of reasons and had a wonderful experience in the completion of a very complicated building. We of course wanted a very competitive price and top craftsmanship. We knew Southwest's reputation of professionalism, honesty, and quality from many others in town so an extremely competitive bid made our choice easy.

Wes Purser helped us take our vision and design that was actually drawn out on a napkin to what I feel is the most attractive and striking buildings in town. We chose external building materials that are rarely if ever used in this region combined with an ultra-contemporary finish on the inside. Wes' advice and experience were invaluable to making adjustments to our plan to ensure a successful outcome. The finish out was meticulous and gets rave reviews from our patients. Wes and his foreman/project manager were constantly accessible and always helpful.

In short, we at Proffer Surgical Associates could not have been happier with our building experience. Our structure is one that we are very proud of and we attribute a large portion of that to Southwest General Contractors. I would recommend them with highest regards.
