

To Whom It May Concern,

I am writing to on the behalf of Southwest General Contractors. We have had the opportunity to partner with them over the past 3-4 years as we worked to complete construction of Phase I and II of our Re:Vision Campaign. Having joined the school officially on July 1, 2017, I worked closely with Chris Moncivais, Monte Boaz, and John Durr who represented Southwest on the completion of our Fine Arts and Athletic Building. Without hesitation, I highly recommend Southwest General Contractors for your project.

Members of the Southwest General Contractors team demonstrated an attention to detail, transparency, and respect to all individuals involved on the project. That forthrightness helped us manage any adjustments that needed to be made proactively before any issue became a conflict that couldn't be resolved. Southwest effectively managed the individual contractors keeping them informed and holding them accountable to timelines and safe school guidelines. Their awareness of all the factors that could affect the execution of the project and the perception of St. Andrew's from our parents, faculty, students, and neighbors was critical to our overall success. Because of their preparedness, we were able to move forward decisively with confidence throughout all stages of the project. As a result, we were on-schedule and under-budget.

From groundbreaking to ribbon-cutting, Southwest General Contractors went above and beyond to ensure our community would be proud of what was accomplished. Again, I encourage you to carefully consider Southwest for your project. Please do not hesitate to contact me for any additional information.

Kindest regards,
